Bullying
Is defined as repeated and unreasonable behaviour directed towards a worker or a group of workers that creates a risk to health and safety.

Repeated behaviour refers to the persistent nature of the behaviour and can involve a range of behaviours over time.

Unreasonable behaviour means behaviour that a reasonable person, having regard for the circumstances, would see as unreasonable, including behaviour that is victimising, humiliating, intimidating or threatening.

Direct discrimination
Is denying a person of an opportunity or treating them less favourably because they belong to a particular group or category. For example: not employing a male applicant on the grounds of females typically doing the job.

Diversity
Describes our differences. People differ not just on the basis of race and gender, but also other dimensions such as lifestyle, education, physical ability, age, religion and family responsibility. Valuing diversity is about recognising and valuing the unique contribution people can make because of their individual background and different skills, experiences and perspectives.
